Description

Location: Yorkshire (hybrid), with travel to the United States
Engagement: Interim, fixed-term, full time (9–12 months)
Start: 2027, date to be confirmed, with a handover period
Role

FD Capital is working with an international consultancy with teams in the UK and the United States to appoint an experienced Interim Chief Financial Officer for a fixed-term assignment of around nine to twelve months.

The business is a well-established, privately owned professional services firm of around 30 people, working on long-term, embedded engagements with major international clients. It has a board of five, and the CFO sits on that board and leads the finance function for the whole business on both sides of the Atlantic.

This is a full CFO remit, not a caretaker role. The interim CFO will own financial and board reporting, cash and working capital, the finance team and compliance across the UK and US entities, and will take on a hands-on role in live commercial deal work alongside the business's leadership and specialist advisers. The appointment begins with a structured handover from the permanent CFO.

Responsibilities

Lead the finance function across the UK and US businesses, managing and developing the finance team.
Prepare and present monthly management accounts and board reporting, giving the board a clear view of performance, cash and risk.
Own cash flow forecasting and working capital management, including the financial impact of large, long-term client contracts.
Oversee statutory reporting, audit, tax and payroll compliance in the UK and the United States, working with external advisers in both countries.
Support live commercial deal processes, working with a contract deal structuring specialist and the project team on pricing, structure and contract terms.
Manage intercompany arrangements and the consolidation of the UK and US entities.
Act as a trusted adviser to the board and partners on financial strategy, investment decisions and the management of client concentration risk.
Maintain relationships with banks, investors, auditors and other advisers.
Hand back a well-run finance function at the end of the assignment, with clear documentation of decisions taken and work in progress.

Qualifications

Qualified accountant (ACA, ACCA or CIMA).
Proven experience as a CFO or senior Finance Director in a professional services, consultancy or advisory business of a similar size.
Experience of cross-border UK and US finance, including US reporting, tax and payroll, and the consolidation of overseas entities.
Confidence reporting to and sitting on a board, and working closely with owners and partners.
Experience of complex, long-term client contracts and the commercial and cash implications of a concentrated client base.

The ability to step into live commercial negotiations mid-process and add value quickly.
Absolute discretion. Much of the business's client work is confidential and carried out under strict non-disclosure arrangements.
Experience of employee-owned, partnership or other shared-ownership models is an advantage but not essential.

Job Benefits

A full CFO remit and a seat at the board table in a respected international consultancy.
A defined, fixed-term assignment of around nine to twelve months, with a structured handover at the start.
Competitive day rate or fixed-term salary, depending on experience and the engagement structure agreed.
Hybrid working from the business's Yorkshire base, with travel to the United States as required.
The chance to work on high-profile, commercially complex client engagements.
